Davies Manor Plantation

19th Century Life Traveling Trunks

We presently have two Traveling Trunks that have been designed to educate your students about 19th century life and Civil War era life and experiences. Both are packed with information and artifacts to help bring these time periods to life in your classroom.

These Traveling Trunks are available for travel to your classroom or educational group, and are designed to match state curriculum standards in language arts, science, and social studies for grades K- 5.

DAVIES MANOR ASSOCIATION, INC.

The mission of Davies Manor Association, Inc. is to study, preserve and enhance Davies Manor Plantation as a portrayal of early Shelby County farm life for the education and enjoyment of visitors.

We are a circa 1830s historic house museum and farm, located on thirty- five wooded acres in Bartlett, Tennessee. We feature an interactive, touchable tour at our museum. In this spirit, students can handle all items in our Traveling Trunk.

The Davies Manor Association, Inc. traveling trunk is intended to bring the experience of touring our museum and historic property to your classroom! Read on for more information.

INCLUDED ARTIFACTS

The trunk includes several artifacts intended to engage students in the process of learning about nineteenth century material culture.

These include:

- Resource book about Davies Manor for the instructor to read

TRUNK RESOURCES

Overview of Nineteenth Century Life will give students a chronological perspective of the last 200 years, and allow them to identify artifacts and modern equivalents.

Using and Reusing Resources teaches students to view natural resources and manufactured items from the perspective of pioneers, and encourages recycling and conservation.

Civil War Era Life encourages students to appreciate the hardships endured by all people and understand the reasons that soldiers were motivated to enlist.

ACTIVITIES

Activities in the trunk reinforce lessons about the ways in which life has changed over the past two hundred years, reusing resources, and lost arts like letter writing and writing with quills.

Activities include:

- Story writing
- Letter writing
- Creating button spinners
- Writing with quill pens
- Then and now matching
- Cleaning cotton
- Plus more, including a wealth of activities in accompanying books
